

A PAGE INDICATOR

Abstract of the Invention

A page indicator of the present invention marks a page of a book or the like. The page indicator is received on a free corner of the page and facilitates grasping the page from either of the adjacent page edge margins at the corner. The page indicator is capable of presenting promotional or other information in a position which is readily observed by the reader upon opening to the page marked.